(ORLANDO, Fla.) Feb. 5, 2014 – Corporate Capital Trust, a business development company that provides individuals the opportunity to invest in the debt of privately owned American companies, announced today that it sourced and funded seven new originated transactions during the fourth quarter of 2013.

The seven deals totaled more than $300 million, and were a combination of senior-secured, subordinated and equity investments. Three of the seven companies added to the portfolio through originated transactions include:

- $112 million was invested in Excelitas Technologies in both senior debt and equity. Excelitas Technologies is a global technology leader focused on delivering innovative, customized, high-performance optoelectronics solutions to leading equipment manufacturers. Excelitas was founded in 1947 and is based in Waltham, Mass.
- A $30 million senior secured term loan was made to Humanetics, the world's leading supplier in the design and manufacture of sophisticated crash test dummies, and associated technical support and laboratory services. The company was founded in the 1950s and is headquartered in Plymouth, Mich.
- A $20 million senior secured loan and participating royalty interest was made to OAG Holdings III, LLC. OAG is a private oil and gas company focused on the Edwards oil trend in South Central Texas. The Edwards oil trend is comprised of five fields containing more than 1,400 wells, most of which date back to the early 1920s.

“We are happy with the progress made during the fourth quarter to further advance the portfolio by funding originated transactions with these seven companies,” says Andy Hyltin, CEO of Corporate Capital Trust. “Our partnership with KKR and the provisions of our allocation policy have allowed us greater access to a broad range of investment opportunities in established companies, evidenced by approximately $675 million in originated transactions as of Dec. 31, 2013.”
